

I saw Eleanor today. I haven't seen her in eight years. I didn't think I'd ever see her again... not since the night we were supposed to leave together and I never showed up. She looked almost as shocked as I was. She ran. Totally expected. God, for the first time in eight years I feel like I can breathe. I feel blood pumping through my veins. I feel alive. I've never stopped loving Eleanor Benson and I never will. How do I explain Della to her? How do I explain any of this to her? I want her back, but can I risk her getting involved in my life again... the life I have no control over?
