

The Seven Letters of Jesus: Gods Message for the End-Time Church

The last words of Jesus to the Church were the letters He gave to the seven churches of Asia Minor at the end of the first century. These seven letters had literal and real-time application to the actual churches and leaders being addressed. They also had prophetic application for the distinct time periods within church history, including the Church of today. Lastly, there is personal application for every believer found within all seven letters. Author David Chapman takes the reader through verse of these timeless and powerful letters found in Revelation chapters 2-3.
