

A Bible. For the Soul.

This is a manual. A manual is collection of data, instructions, observations, guidelines and examples on how to operate a mechanism. A mechanism is a physical object that is capable of interacting with other physical objects. A physical object exists in the present time and occupies physical space. Physical space is where all living entities exists. Living entities can be occupied by a physical consciousness. A physical consciousness is the basic operating system that controls the living entity in order to meet its basic survival needs. Not all living entities require a consciousness to properly operate themselves, but most higher, more evolved forms of life do have them. A consciousness can be influenced and modified beyond its basic needs by a spiritual consciousness as well. The spiritual consciousness that controls a physical consciousness is what you know as a soul. A soul is an advanced operating system for the conscious. Like most advanced operating systems, a soul needs to be programmed. It needs to be programmed with instructions, guidelines and examples by which to properly influence and operate the living entity it occupies. A soul needs a manual. A good, time proven and effective manual is often referred to as a bible. This is not a religious text, this is a manual. A bible. For the soul.
